

Barred Owlet

Birds of Prey - Even young birds of prey can be difficult to handle, so take care. If the youngster is a nestling it should be returned to the nest if at all possible, but lookout for the parent birds! In some species, fledglings may sit on the ground and be fed by the parents for a few days, so don't immediately rush to the rescue. Please give us a call before you try to do anything on your own.